Mistakes in a conversation on the telephone

You are about to watch a short video clip about a business conversation on the telephone. The person shown in the video receives calls and answers the phone for a company called Phelps Cards for the first time. She makes some major mistakes…

Before you watch the video think about how you would answer the phone in this situation.

1) Write down at least three pieces of information you need to give the caller. 5 minutes

2) While you are watching the video write down all mistakes you can find.

3) After you watched the video work with a student that is not your neighbor and expand (erweitern) your list of mistakes. 5 minutes

4) Now meet with another team of two student and add their mistakes to your list.

5 minutes

Golden Rules of telephoning

Work in your group and transform your list of mistakes into "golden rules for telephoning". Write complete sentences and give an example for every rule. You can also add your own rules that were not in the video!

Golden Rules

You need to greet the other person on the phone. - Example: Good morning.

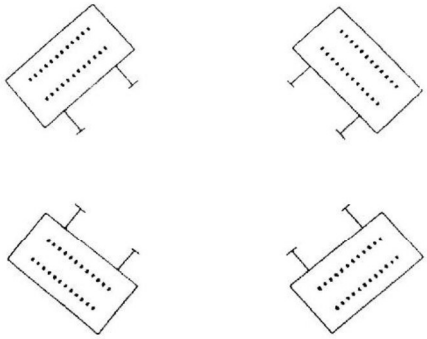
Presenting your results – 4-Corners

Present your results to the class.

Materials:

- A pencil and a piece of paper (everyone)
- A colored pencil (one)

1.) Put the piece of paper with your "golden rules of telephoning" on a table in one corner of the classroom.



2.) Go around with your group to the other tables. One of your group members reads out loud the rules. The others write down on an extra piece of paper which rules you forgot on your own sheet of paper.

3.) After that underline language mistakes together in a different color.

4.) Repeat this for every list of golden rules. Switch your roles every time you start with a new list (reader, listener and writer).
